A CENTURY EDUCATING WOMEN OF PROMISE

PINE MANOR COLLEGE

100th Anniversary of the Founding of Pine Manor College, 1911–2011

Ten decades of growth. Ten decades of new beginnings and transformations. Ten decades of classes, friendships, teachers.

Over these decades–encompassing five generations–the College has graduated more than 12,000 and played a major role in the lives of more than 20,000 women who have been part of its community.

During the 2010-11 academic year the College will complete 100 years of providing exceptional education for women of promise. To coordinate the 100th Anniversary celebration, the Board of Trustees has established a Centennial Celebration Committee chaired by Board Member Elizabeth (Betsy) Van Orsdel Moulds '64 of Napa, California.

The purpose of this celebration, according to Moulds, "is to commemorate the 100 years that Pine Manor College has been educating and graduating women of promise and to celebrate the achievements both of the College and its students."

"We want to emphasize the PMC experience with its focus on quality education for women and its insistence on the importance of the role they play in their families, in their workplaces, and in their communities," Moulds stated. "We also want to celebrate memories, friends, classes and teachers and what each and every student took away from the College and carries with her."

"The purpose of this celebration is to commemorate the 100 years that Pine Manor College has been educating and graduating women of promise and to celebrate the achievements both of the College and its students."

"To do this properly," Moulds continued, "we are planning a year-long celebration with events, both formal and informal, scheduled on both the old Wellesley campus and at the College. We want to provide opportunities for alumnae to see old friends, meet the families of classmates, and get to know other alums. We also want them to reconnect with the faculty and the College."

"We want people to have fun. To maximize participation, we are trying to plan something for everyone," Moulds added. "We are currently planning events ranging from a formal dinner to an old-fashioned picnic to a silent auction and tours of the campus."

"At the same time, we are looking for ways to involve current faculty and students. We anticipate having a number of regional events around the country as well." Moulds said. "We want everyone to have pride in the Pine Manor College of yesterday, today, and tomorrow."

"Finally, we are looking for ways that give Pine Manor alumnae and friends meaningful ways to share their feelings about the College and to financially support its mission for the next ten decades," Moulds concluded. "We are hoping to be able to raise enough money to increase the number of scholarships at the College and to substantially increase its endowment ."

The CLASS of 2014

From the President

Dear Alumnae and Friends:

I have decided that this will be my last academic year as President of Pine Manor College. In June, I will have completed 15 years, longer than I ever imagined when I accepted the position in 1996. It has been a wonderful experience, filled with challenges that we have confronted and successes we have achieved together. Because of your support and guidance, we have much to be proud of as we approach the celebration of Pine Manor's Centennial.

These past 15 years have built on the accomplishments of so many who came before me—those who worked tirelessly to provide a distinctive learning environment for nearly 20,000 women. The teams of faculty, trustees, administrators, and student life educators with whom I have been privileged to work deserve enormous credit. These remarkable people reflect the creativity, vision, and determination that characterized our founder, Helen Temple Cooke, when, in 1911, she recognized the need for a personalized, holistic approach to the education of women. And we have all been inspired and motivated by our students, who have gone on to become our incredible alumnae. I am proud to be a small part of the history of this special College as it moves into its second century.

The recovery in our enrollment and the expansion of our inclusive community; the development of our reflective, Portfolio Learning Program; the deepening of our required internship program; the creation of our low-residency MFA in Creative Writing, now gaining national attention; the growth of our internationally regarded English Language Institute; the greening of our campus with the help of Citizens Energy; the acquisition of a grant from the National Science Foundation to support our Bio-Scholars; the work of our Center for Inclusive Leadership and Social Responsibility to create community learning partners—all of these accomplishments provide our students with opportunities to learn the benefits of collaboration, communication, creativity, service to others and critical thinking about the interdependencies among people and systems. I am proud to have shared in these achievements with you.

Most recently I have been energized by the leadership that Pine Manor has demonstrated in addressing the national concern to increase the college graduation rates of our population. While others are just beginning to figure out how to make this happen, Pine Manor's voice is loud and clear on the national stage. We are sharing with others what we have learned from years of holding to high expectations and practicing personalized, relationship-based learning. It is gratifying that others are listening. As my work continues in the arena of increasing graduation rates for traditionally underserved students, I know that I will stay connected with and be promoting the values of Pine Manor College.

I know too that our mutual dedication to Pine Manor will keep us connected. I hope I have a chance to speak with you personally during the next few months. I will let you know when I'll be in your area and please let me know if you can visit on campus.

With gratitude,

Gloria Nemerowicz

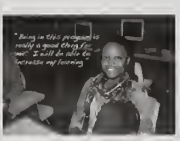
Enhanced Foundational Program

"Being in the EFP makes us feel confident and proud."



"Being in this program is really a good thing for me. I will be able to increase my learning."

"EFP is not just a program to learn English but to meet people from different countries and cultures so we can learn from each other."

"Being in the EFP makes us feel confident and proud. I feel the EFP helps us to learn English and to improve our learning."

New in 2009-10, the Enhanced Foundation Program (EFP) is an innovative approach that provides domestic and international students whose first language is not English the opportunity to gain the skills they need to be successful in college while at the same time working toward their bachelor's degree. The program reflects the College's commitment to reaching out to underserved populations and to providing access and success in higher education.

Students entering the program are high school graduates who demonstrate strong academic ability but have scored below minimum admission requirements on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). The EFP offers these young women courses that integrate language skill training into college-level material, thus making it possible for them to build proficiency in English and progress toward their degree.

COMPONENTS OF THE ENHANCED FOUNDATION PROGRAM:

- Two Intensive English courses (one focused on grammar and writing, the other on reading comprehension) in each of the first three semesters
- Writing labs to assess and improve written course work
- Tutoring services for individuals and groups
- Specialized language support for the first two years of college study
- Small class sizes
- Faculty trained to understand the challenges faced by non-native speakers in college courses

THE THIRD ANNUAL MEETING of the Pine Manor College Board of Visitors took place on September 24. Over 40 people, including neighbors and members from Georgia, Illinois, Connecticut, California, Washington, DC, and Florida, convened on campus to learn more about the College's mission and our exciting initiatives to assure the success of all PMC students through to their graduation. Welcomed by Chair Brenda Bernstein Shapiro '58, members had an opportunity to get to know each other and to meet administrative staff before the program began.

President Gloria Nemerowicz provided an overview of the national context for the crisis in higher education today, highlighting the need for more colleges like Pine Manor to assure that the country grows the percentage of the population with college degrees.

The program concluded with a panel of eight students who described the transformative impact that Pine Manor is having on their lives and the futures they can now envision because of their experiences at PMC.

Posters on this page were displayed at the meeting.

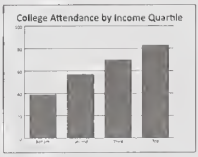
Access & Success

Pine Manor College: Responding to a National Crisis



"The latest generation of adults in the US may be the first since World War II, and possibly before that, not to attain higher levels of education than the previous generations. While white and Asian American young people are outpacing previous generations, the gaps for other minority groups are large enough that the current generation is, on average, heading toward being less educated than its predecessor."

While Access, especially to private higher education, is and will remain a concern, Success is an even bigger social problem.

"America's competitive advantage in the global economy depends upon increasing rates of bachelor's degree attainment."

"Enhance bachelor's degree attainment is essential to America's economic future, narrowing income-related gaps in degree attainment is of critical importance."

"Four year college enrollment and completion rates by family income are likely to remain constant, at best, and bachelor's degree losses are likely to increase."

ACHIEVEMENT DAY

Ellsworth Theatre was the venue for PMC's 11th annual Achievement Day on April 21. The program showcased the accomplishments and talents of the College's students, featuring an impressive variety of portfolio presentations, displays and demonstrations, dance and musical performances, and artistic works. Students received awards for their distinguished work and honored a faculty member with a teaching award.

Opening the ceremony, President Nemerowicz said "Achievement Day is nothing short of a full community celebration of the process of learning, of growth, and empowerment, which are at the core of our mission at PMC. It is a tangible demonstration of your own understanding of growth through the work that you have done on your portfolios."

Student portfolios are personal records kept by each student of their educational achievement as well as their development as individuals, as caring and responsible members of community, and as leaders. Each student begins tracking her progress at First Year Orientation and continues the process throughout her four years at PMC.

The Ruth Allinger Gibson '26 Teaching Award was presented to Professor of Art History William Stargard. Voted on by the students, this annual award honors the teacher who best represents excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Academic awards were presented by the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Dean of the College Nia Lane Chester and faculty members from the various departments.

Alpha Chi 2010

Seven juniors and seniors were inducted into the College's Delta Chapter of the Alpha Chi National Honors Society last February. The ceremony in Kresge Hall was conducted by the Society's new faculty advisor Professor of Art History William Stargard, who succeeded the group's first faculty advisor Professor Emeritus Robert J. Owczarek. He was assisted by Professor of Music Mahala Beams and Biology Professor Elizabeth Gardner. Students, family members, faculty, and friends were in attendance.

Inductees included: Cassandra George, '10; Catherine Maki '11; Jyoti Martin '12; Meaghan Sage '11; Jenna Shaffer '11; Danielle St. Jacques '10; and Veronica Vozzolo '10.

To be eligible for membership, a student must be pursuing a degree, be a junior or senior, have completed at least one year of academic residency, have a cumulative grade point average (gpa) of at least 3.5, and have earned at least one semester gpa of 3.75 either during junior or senior year. PMC's chapter of Alpha Chi was established in 1991 with 16 founding members.

Career Services and Internships

During the spring semester, the Career Center worked with students through programs, classroom visits, and one-on-one counseling, focusing on preparing juniors for their senior internship placements and assisting students with writing resumes and cover letters.

The Center hosted the New England School of Acupuncture, which informed students about graduate study in that career area. Additionally, representatives from the U.S. Secret Service came to campus to recruit students for employment because many PMC students have indicated that they are interested in criminal justice careers. Classroom visits to all senior seminars were scheduled so that Center staff members could talk with seniors about job search, resumes, and cover letters. We held several "Senior Strategies" lunch time, drop-by sessions in the Campus Center.

The New York Times Education section on Saturday, May 29, highlighted the College in a feature entitled "Women's Colleges Shift Gaze to the Less Well-Off". The half-page story examined women's colleges that have shifted their philosophies and are now enrolling and graduating low-income underserved women and minority students who might not otherwise enroll in college.

Times staff reporter Katie Zezima spent several days in April visiting the campus, attending classes, meeting with students, and taking pictures. She also had in-depth conversations with alumnae and President Nemerowicz about PMC's transformation, current mission, and future vision. The article discussed the College's collaboration with the Boston Public Schools, its recruitment strategies nationwide using various college access programs. and the College's efforts to keep tuition as low as possible in spite of the economy.

Alternative Spring Break: Katrina on the Ground

THE [BIG] EASY ROUTE

by cilsr Staff

Pine Manor College and Gulf Coast Volunteers for the Long Haul once again partnered for the College's Second Annual Alternative Spring Break trip to New Orleans last March. Eight students were selected to participate in the service-learning experience, traveling to New Orleans with Whitney Retallic, Director of Pine Manor's Center for Inclusive Leadership and Social Responsibility (cilsr), and Tasia Cerezo, Massachusetts Campus Compact AmeriCorps*VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America).

> "MY experience in New Orleans was amazing. It helped me grow as an individual because not only did I rebuild homes, but I heard inspirational stories from the people there and got a better understanding of how Hurricane Katrina affected them and their communities."

Cerezo established the Alternative Spring Break program at Pine Manor during her first year as a VISTA, as part of her work to help build the College's capacity to provide service-learning opportunities for students. "I think people take for granted the effect service-learning trips such as this can have not only on students but on anyone. Getting to take knowledge from the classroom and put it to use right away is a hands-on approach that is practical and makes a longer lasting impression on people," Cerezo said.

This year's group was evidence of the strong and lasting impact that the trip to New Orleans has on students—five of the students who participated this year were returners from 2009 who wanted to go back to contribute more of their time, energy and passion to a city still in need. One returning student, Asia Smith '11, said, "My experience in New Orleans was amazing. It helped me grow as an individual because not only did I rebuild homes, but I heard inspirational stories from the people there and got a better understanding of how Hurricane Katrina affected them and their communities." And there might be a third ASB on the horizon for Smith, as she continued, "My experience was one I wouldn't change for the world and I will definitely be going back in the future."

As a service-learning course, students not only participate in service, but engage in a class that allows them to learn about the context of their service work. During the spring semester, students participated in a course entitled "Katrina on the Ground," instructed by Ronda Zelezny-Green (Coordinator of Multicultural Services in Student Life and Coordinator of Youth Leadership Programs in the cilsr), where they learned about the history and culture of New Orleans, the story of Katrina, and the work that is still ahead in the rebuilding process.

Throughout the year, students organized and carried out various fundraising activities—such as a 50/50 raffle, baby-sitting and a yard sale—in order to cover the costs of the trip. Money raised covered airfare, room and board at a local church and opportunities for students to experience New Orleanian culture. Again this year, students took in (and some guest starred in!) a concert by New Orleanian Charmaine Neville at the famous local jazz club Snug Harbor.

Although there were opportunities for the students to enjoy themselves, there was also plenty of hard work. While in New Orleans, the group installed dry-wall, hung doors, tiled floors, patched leaking roofs, helped to dig out a baseball field for the children in the Lower Ninth Ward, and built an entire playground in less than seven hours. In discussing the experience, trip-coordinator Whitney Retallic said, "As we mark the fifth anniversary of Katrina, it is important to acknowledge how much is still left to be done in New Orleans."

PMC students were surprised by how much still was undone. Angelina Rodriguez '11 noted the overall lack of progress from last year and said, "I was a little sad to go by a house that I worked on last year and saw that it's pretty much the same. But, in spite of everything," she continued, "this is definitely a city with hope."

Community Learning Day

Messages of Hope and Survival

Community Learning Day in October differed substantially from previous years, with more of a global focus—especially with a HERvoices presentation about a women-led peace movement in Kenya and an evening presentation by Valentina Iribagiza, a survivor of the Rwandan genocide.

Adjunct professor Emma Reinhardt, Founder and Director of HERvoices, and her students facilitated the viewing and discussion of a video that told a remarkable story of a group of women from the Kenyan town of Wajir, who, although normally marginalized in their predominantly Muslim community, directed their community through an inclusive and effective, nonviolent peace process. For 15 years they had been confronted by tribal warfare over sparse resources and controversial traditional/colonial geographical boundaries. When the fighting came to the marketplace and restricted trading between the women, they could no longer wait for the men to stop the conflict. "We held a Peace Festival long before there was peace," recounts one peace leader. "We honored some of our most violent clan leaders—as Peace-Makers! So they hiked up their boot-straps and started acting like Peace-Makers!"

In the evening, a Frontline documentary was shown about Ms. Iribagiza and the Rwandan genocide. A member of the Tutsi tribe in Rwanda, Iribgiza recounted how her Hutu neighbors attacked, robbed and killed the Tutsi residents. She and her family fled to the village church for protection, but the church was surrounded and all inside were methodically killed. Attacked by a man wielding a machete, she sustained major head wounds and a mutilated hand. She survived by lying among the dead without moving. More than a month later she was discovered and treated; her recovery took several months. In spite of her experiences, Iribagiza conveyed an air of strength, and her message was one of peace, hope, and forgiveness.

During the day, students created their own messages of peace, which were displayed in the Campus Center, and held an hour-long community rally for peace and justice.

Valentina Iribagiza: (l–r) recovering after the attacks; her mutalated hand; aged 16 years.

X-rays, Lasers, Drip Paintings and Mummies: Art and Science Meet at the Museum

Anne P. Nicholson '60 Distinguished Lecturer Series

Art and Science Meet at PMC

by William Stargard, Professor of Art History

The worlds of art and science were brought together at the College last spring in a fascinating lecture, "X-rays, Lasers, Drip Paintings and Mummies: Art and Science Meet at the Museum". Part of the 2010 Nicholson Distinguished Lecturer Series and co-sponsored by the B.A. Programs in Biology and History, the lecture was delivered by Daniel Kirby (Andrew W. Mellon Associate in Conservation Science, Straus Center for Conservation and Technical Studies, Harvard University) and Richard Newman (Head of Scientific Research, Museum of Fine Arts, Boston).

Kirby and Newman explained how chemical analysis can be used to authenticate a work of art. For example, careful analysis of paints in several works thought to be by the abstract expressionist painter Jackson Pollock revealed that the works could not be attributed to Pollock because some of the pigments weren't available until after his death.

Both speakers pointed out to the well-attended audience in the Presidents' Dining Room that science can reveal a good deal about works of art and other cultural artifacts, often disclosing important physical features not visible to the human eye. Museum curators and art historians depend closely upon the scientific analysis performed by scientists in museums. Their joint work forms an interesting and fruitful collaboration in art museums around the world.

A Conversation with Dr. Vincent Harding,

Civil Rights Leader and Educator, Friend, Ally and Speech Writer for MLK Jr.

Dreaming a New America

"Don't be afraid of being too beautiful, too powerful, or too full of light—be this and we give permission for others to be this also."

More than 130 members of the PMC's community, neighbors of the College, and residents of Brookline and Newton gathered in the Campus Center for a conversation with Dr. Vincent Harding, a Civil Rights leader and friend, ally, and speechwriter for Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

For almost two hours Harding engaged his audience, keeping hold of both their attention and their imagination, in a relaxed yet electric atmosphere. Specifically reaching out to the students in his audience, he successfully got them to reflect on who they were and where they came from. He asked leading questions about backgrounds, ancestors, ancestral homelands, proximate homelands, ways of doing things, ways of reacting to the world, and more macroscopically, questions dealing with culture and personal philosophy.

Harding encouraged his audience to carefully examine themselves, their beliefs and values, and most importantly, their ways of reaching out and dealing with others. He encouraged the need for the positive and urged the assembly to value themselves and their own accomplishments, as well as those of others. "Don't be afraid of being too beautiful, too powerful, or too full of light—be this and we give permission for others to be this also," he emphasized.

Harding is an historian, author, public intellectual, and activist who has participated in movements for compassionate justice and nonviolent social change since the late 1950s. A friend and associate of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Harding was active in the Southern Freedom (Civil Rights) Movement. He was the founding director of both the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Center and the Institute of the Black World. Harding is professor emeritus of Religion and Social Transformation at the Iliff School of Theology in Denver, Colorado, and is the co-founder and chair of the Veterans of Hope Project, an interdisciplinary initiative on religion, culture, and grassroots democracy.

Harding was born in New York City on July 25, 1931, and grew up in Harlem and the South Bronx. He earned an undergraduate degree in history from the City College of New York (1952), a Master's degree in Journalism at Columbia University (1953), and both a Master's and Doctorate in history from the University of Chicago (1956 and 1965, respectively).

In 1965, shortly before beginning a period of teaching at Spelman College, Harding's increasing concern about the Vietnam War led him to write an open letter to King and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) Convention. In it he raised issues of conscience, expressed solidarity with the international anti-colonial struggles, and asked the SCLC to take a stand on behalf of the suffering Vietnamese people.

In the fall of 1966, when King received an invitation to address the gathering of Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam, he asked Harding to draft the speech. Delivered on April 4, 1967, at the Riverside Church in New York City, it has been hailed as "one of the most important speeches in American History." Commonly referred to as "Beyond Vietnam" or "A Time to Break Silence," the text drew essential connections between King's role as a Civil Rights leader, his commission as a minister and follower of Jesus, and the moral and ethical imperative arising from those commitments to speak out against the war. He identified the triple evils of racism, militarism, and materialism infecting the soul of America and called for a "revolution of values" and an accompanying "radical change in the structures of society."

Following the assassination of Dr. King in 1968, Harding was asked by King's widow to help her organize the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Center, including the Library-Documentation project (originally envisioned as the major documentary archive of the Freedom Movement). Harding became its first director. He was also the founding executive director of the Institute of the Black World (IBW), a center for research, publication, and advocacy arising out of both the Freedom and the Black power/Black consciousness movements. IBW was instrumental in providing intellectual and ideological guidance for the then-new academic field of Black studies. Harding remained at IBW until 1974.

In 1986 Harding was the senior academic advisor for the award winning PBS series "Eyes on the Prize," chronicling the years of the Civil Rights Movement. He has since consulted on a number of documentaries and other projects related to African-American history, and particularly the spiritually-based struggles for justice. Harding is the author of numerous articles, essays, and books, including, The Other American Revolution (1980), There is a River: The Black Struggle for Freedom in America (1981), Hope and History: Why We Must Share the Story of the Movement (1990), and Martin Luther King: The Inconvenient Hero (1996).

Fifth Graduation for MFA in Creative Writing Program

The MFA Program's fifth graduation was held in July. Seven students ranging in age from 29 to 63 and representing four states—Connecticut, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Virginia—received their diplomas: poet Jennifer Morrison; fiction writers Ann McArdle, Michael Farrell, and Lisa Friedlander; creative nonfiction writers Kerry Beckford and Cindy Zelman; and young-adult writer Jasen Sousa.

Acclaimed essayist Philip Lopate served as commencement speaker, bringing his wisdom and humor to a brief address that encouraged graduates to be assertive, cultivate a wide range of interests, and work hard. Class speaker Ann McArdle offered some words regarding her experience in the program and her hopes for her fellow graduates going forward. A reception followed in the Ferry Building's Moncrief Room, where more than 75 guests mingled in honor of the graduates.

The graduation also marked the conclusion of the Program's ninth residency with its craft classes, workshops, electives and readings by 19 authors.

Four New Fellowships for Writers

In early September the MFA Program announced the addition of four new fellowships for writers, including the Dennis Lehane Fellowship for Fiction, the Michael Steinberg Fellowship for Creative Nonfiction, the Jacqueline Woodson Fellowship for a Young People's Writer of African or Caribbean Descent, and the Sharon Olds Fellowship for Poetry. Cornelia Kubler Kavanagh '60

Painted Bronze Sculpture Donated to PMC

Internationally recognized sculptor, Cornelia Kubler Kavanagh '60, presented the College with AEVUM II, a painted bronze sculpture originally displayed at the 51st Venice Biennale in 2005, where her "Shape of Time" sculptural installation honored both the Virgin Islands, which she represented, and the seminal treatise on art history her father, George Kubler, wrote in 1961.

In May, Kavanagh was awarded an Honorary Degree in the Arts at commencement (see pg. 4). AEVUM II is temporarily displayed in the foyer of the Ferry Administration Building. It will be permanently displayed in the atrium of the Ashby Campus Center in the near future.

As a sculptor, Kavanagh's first instinct was to render personal responses to life in form. For years she found inspiration within the tradition of organic abstraction, carving sculpture in the manner of Arp, Brancusi and Moore. Today, however, celebrating natural beauty, per se, no longer satisfies her. She feels the need to search for beauty in all aspects of nature, even those manifested by epic disasters.

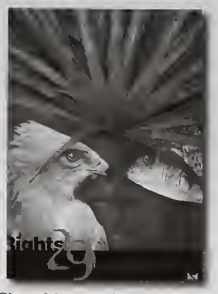
Kavanagh's sculpture has been exhibited around the world. In 2005, one of her large bronze castings, Vertical Edge From II, was awarded the first F. Scott Fitzgerald prize by John Hightower at the Port Warwick Art & Sculpture Festival in Newport News, Virginia. In 2009 her sculptures, inspired by melting ice in the Arctic, were exhibited during the International Polar Weekend at the American Museum of Natural History in New York. Last year WING FORM, a large marble sculpture, was installed in the lobby of the new Smilow Cancer Hospital at Yale-New Haven. Kavanagh has had five solo exhibitions in New York, and she is represented by galleries there and in Singapore.

Kavanagh received an AA degree from Pine Manor in 1960, a BA in Art History from Barnard College, and an MA from Columbia University. Listed in Who's Who in American Art, she is a member of Connecticut Women Artists, the National Association of Women Artists, and she is a colleague of the National Sculpture Society.

Hess Gallery 2010-2011

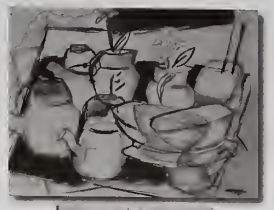
Artists Confront Contemporary Issues

by Carole F. Rabe, Director



Chaz Maviyane-Davies, Professor of Design at Massachusetts College of Art, offered his powerful graphic work September 1–October 13 in the Hess Gallery. A portion of Maviyane-Davies' artist's statement stresses that: "Over the years I have tried to use images and ideas to cut through complacency and apathy while trying to raise consciousness about an array of social issues from discrimination and human rights, to health and the environment. Creating an alternate vision as my expression in a pervading regressive body politic has never been easy, but design is my weapon and therein lies the challenge I call 'Creative Defiance.'" Visit www.maviyane.com.

Prilla Smith Brackett's monoprint and painting exhibit, Places of the Heart, was on display October 20–December 1. About her work Smith Brackett states: "This work explores the intermingling of the domestic with the natural. I incorporate semi-transparent furniture from another era with forest imagery, experimenting with how transparent and above the forest the furniture is, or how embedded it is within. I'm interested in narrative uncertainty, and the power of imagination and memory." Visit www.prillasmithbrackett.com.



From December 10–February 2, students will showcase their work from visual arts classes and beyond. They will also be actively involved in the preparation and the installation of this exhibit.

Photographer Bremner Benedict, who will be exhibiting February 8– March 21, has this to say about her digital photographic work: "Milton, the 17th-century poet, in Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained describes Eden as representing a lost past and at the same time an imagined future. He believes our identity as humans is inseparable from nature. His ideas inspire this body of work. The struggle between a love for the natural world and a desire to dominate it has produced a profound tension in our connection to nature. The persistent need to conquer and control the natural world has alienated us from it. The expectations for us to change our attitudes have never been greater. As technology diminishes our ability to see nature as the source of our identity, the shape of our future is uncertain. Both as a parent and a person concerned with the prospects ahead of us environmentally, I am investigating how the relationship we have to the natural world has changed. This work encompasses three views: one on a present Eden, one on a lost Eden and one on a potential Eden." Visit www.bremnerbenedict.com.

Diane Ayott will present her mixed media abstract paintings March 29–April 28. Ayott states, "My painting is very complex, both in the layering of information and in the development of color relationships. It involves keen attention to the specific accrual of marks over time and their integration in the overall gestalt of each piece. From a distance, viewers may experience an overall color palette but once close to the work, small bits of distinct, painted information reveal themselves. I use acrylic and oil paint and various collage materials on both paper and panel. In some cases, the repeating patterns and vibrating color allow the mark making to shimmer in space. At other times the work requires a quiet and calmer feeling. I follow the direction of my work and my intention is to express its individual clarity as completely as I can. In my studio I explore this rich geographical area of color and bits of information as fully as possible. As a result, these pieces invite the viewer to take time, to really look, and to pause in the pleasure of the visual. Visit www.dianeayott.com.

The semester-long art projects of the Visual Arts Seniors will be featured in the Senior Thesis Exhibition from May 7–15. Each year, the Visual Arts Seniors surprise and delight the PMC community with their imaginative exploration of their particular area of interest—from photography to sculpture.

Each artist will be on campus during their exhibits for a gallery talk/reception, offering insight into their creative process. Visit www.pmc.edu/hess-gallery for updated information.

80 DEGREES AWARDED AT

99TH COMMENCEMENT

By Peter Woloschuk

Despite a forecast for showers, damp, and cold, the day dawned sunny, clear, and comfortable -- a perfect morning in early May.

At precisely 11 AM, the Brass Ensemble struck up the joyful paens of the processional march, and the academic procession moved forward, led by retiring College Marshall and Drama Professor Robert Owczarek, who proudly bore the College's mace. He was followed by President Nemerowicz, members of the Board of Trustees, Honorary Degree recipients, faculty and graduates.

The procession wound its way across the main drive and onto the closely manicured lawn that gently slopes down toward the pond, where more than 1000 family members and friends of the graduates gathered in a large white tent.

President Nemerowicz welcomed everyone, saying, "The joy, the pride, the exuberance of spirit that we feel today affirms our mission to educate women for inclusive leadership and social responsibility. Today is a celebration of the potential for people to transform their lives and to break the boundaries that separate us. It is a celebration of the power of respect and collaboration to overcome obstacles and differences and move forward together for the common good.

"You, dear graduates, bring us hope and optimism. Your willingness to honestly engage with others who may seem different from you—to learn with them and to solve problems collaboratively—demonstrates to others the power of inclusion to improve our lives."

Senior Class Speaker Helena Makor pointed out to the graduating class that "Pine Manor gave us the opportunity to explore our options and interests. What we learned in this diverse atmosphere is that we don't have to lose our identity to blend into the majority...we learned to be who we are: women who will leave an impact on the world!"

Senior Class Speaker Helena Makor

"Pine Manor gave us the opportunity to explore our options and interests. What we learned in this diverse atmosphere is that we don't have to lose our identity to blend into the majority... we learned to be who we are: women who will leave an impact on the world!"

Following Ms. Makor's remarks, President Nemerowicz conferred three honorary doctorate degrees. After she received her honorary degree, Trish Karter, CEO and Founder of the Dancing Deer Baking Company, recalled that when she met graduating seniors on campus in April she was impressed that approximately 60 percent of them were the first in their families to attend college.

"In preparing for today," Karter said, "I read Pine Manor's mission statement and found concepts I care about deeply: 'preparing women for roles of inclusive leadership and social responsibility in an environment that celebrates diversity and respects the common good.' How fantastic would it be if every one of you took those ideas and built your lives around them? I have the sense that you are already there."

Pine Manor College alumna and noted sculptor Cornelia Kubler Kavanagh '60 told graduates that although she had always wanted to be an artist, she did not begin sculpting until she was in her mid-forties. "I began late and was self taught, but I am living my dream and have accomplished what I set out to do." She encouraged the graduates to "never stop dreaming...never stop growing. Find your dream, find your voice, and make a difference."

Gloria Reuben, actress, singer, and social activist, urged graduates to "connect with your interests and passions and set out with extraordinary possibilities. Remember that there will be times when forward movement is difficult, but if you keep your hearts strong, your vision clear, and your heads high, you will achieve your goals."

Following the Honorary Degree presentations, President Nemerowicz paid tribute to the faculty, asking all faculty members to rise and be recognized. The faculty and student awards were then presented (see facing page).

The College conferred 12 master's, 65 bachelor's and 3 associate's degrees including: 12 Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing, 14 Bachelor of Arts in Biology; 12 in Psychology, 11 in Communication; 10 in Management and Organizational Change; 8 in Economic and Financial Systems; 4 in Visual Arts; 3 in Social and Political Systems; 2 in Liberal Studies; 1 in English; 2 Associate in Science in Biology and 1 in Health Sciences.

2010 HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENTS

The College honored the following three women for their contributions in business, the arts, and entertainment.

TRISH KARTER, Doctor of Arts

An entrepreneur who combines good business with good work. As founder and CEO of the Dancing Deer Baking Company in Boston, Karter has demonstrated that a successful business can simultaneously produce a quality product, be environmentally responsible, and contribute directly to improving the lives of others.

When Karter founded Dancing Deer in 1994, she redirected her career from being a full-time artist to the world of business. Her artistic talents carried over to the packaging, decorating and designing aspects of the new company. The business model that she created reflected a concern for the environment learned as a child from her father as well as her sense of the value of a collaborative management style. She turned down contracts that might compromise her commitment not to use preservatives and included all employees in the business process to increase their sense of investment and produce a better product.

Karter also established a philanthropic partnership between Dancing Deer and the Paul and Phyllis Fireman Foundation. By donating 35% of the retail price of certain products, Dancing Deer contributes to the Sweet Home project to help end family homelessness. Last year, Karter took helping the disadvantaged and giving back to the community to new lengths—literally. She bicycled from Atlanta to Boston, spending nights at homeless shelters along the way to raise awareness of the need to help others.

CORNELIA KUBLER KAVANAGH '60, Doctor of Arts

An artist and sculptor and distinguished Pine Manor alumna. Kubler Kavanagh's sculptures have been exhibited worldwide and are in private collections throughout the United States. Most recently, she held an exhibit in the College's Hess Gallery, including a piece that she recently donated to PMC.

Kubler Kavanagh's interest in forms began as a young child in a family of artists and art historians and manifested in the study of art and art history in college. But it was only after raising her family and teaching that she began to pursue her passion for translating forms into sculpture. Inspired by the beauty of life forms, she followed in the artistic tradition of organic abstraction as practiced by Henry Moore and Barbara Hepworth.

The tsunami that struck Southeast Asia in December 2004 had a strong impact on Kubler Kavanagh and her work. She began looking for—and helping others to see—beauty in all aspects of nature, even those that bring mass destruction. As a result, she created a series of dramatic "Tsunami" sculptures to represent the relentless action of waves and the changing colors of the sea during cataclysmic storms. Her most recent exhibit, "Arctic Melt," focuses again on the paradox of water as a natural element of both beauty and destruction. Wanting to educate her viewers about the effects of global warming, she sculpted images of melt water swirling through tunnels in ice and being lost to the environment.

GLORIA REUBEN, Doctor of Arts

An accomplished actress, singer, and social activist. Reuben has received multiple Emmy and Golden Globe nominations for her roles in the TV series ER and Law & Order and in major films. Although acting has earned her well-deserved acclaim and has been the prime focus of her career for many years, more recently she began nurturing her love for contemporary music. By singing backup for a Tina Turner concert tour and teaching herself to play the guitar, she honed her musical skills and broke into the recording industry. Those who have attended NFL and NBA sporting events have had the pleasure of hearing her sing the Canadian and United States national anthems.

As a social activist, Reuben is a strong voice and source of support for causes that she holds dear, such as HIV/AIDS, human rights, the environment, and women's issues. Her focus on AIDS began with her role on ER as a healthcare worker who was living with HIV. In 2005 she was the keynote speaker at the first Black Women's Conference on HIV/AIDS in Los Angeles. Today she is the spokesperson for the Elizabeth Glaser Pediatric AIDS Foundation.

The organizations that Reuben supports with passion includes the Waterkeeper Alliance, a grass roots non-profit organization founded by Robert Kennedy to preserve and protect the waterways of the world; the Leadership Council for the Robert F. Kennedy Center for Justice and Human Rights; and the President's Advisory Council for the National Wildlife Federation.

ELI and PMC Undergraduates Discuss Their Views on Leadership

Ten students from ELI joined Whitney Retallic, Director of the Center for Inclusive Leadership and Social Responsibility, and her ilsr class for two sessions in February. ELI students were interviewed by the PMC students about their views on leadership. The aim of the class was to give the Pine Manor students an international perspective on how leadership is viewed when compared to views in the U.S. In addition, it provided ELI students with a unique opportunity to tackle a challenging discussion in English with native English speakers.

The topic led to lively conversation and the formation of new friendships. One important lesson learned was that many of the views of leadership are universal. Although many of the ELI students went into the first meeting with a level of fear or lack of confidence because they doubted their English ability, they found that they were able to communicate. They also learned that part of being a leader is taking a chance on trying something, even when there is fear or a feeling of unreadiness.

A Visit to Furniture Bank in Lynn, Massachusetts

by Ernesto A. Camacho, ELI Student

In February, ELI students in the Service Learning Program went to "Furniture Bank" to investigate how this institution helps the homeless, to find out what kind of help is offered, and to spend a day volunteering.

At first, the students thought that their task would be easy. However, they soon learned that the institution receives donations of clothing, linens, and even furniture from many families and the donations build up in a short period of time from small piles to small mountains. The students then spent the day sorting through the piles, separating goods according to size and gender to distribute to the needy by social workers.

While the students were working they could see that some things were in very good condition and/or new. This surprised many of them, and a few asked if this was the result of American consumerism; where people buy and buy and, afterwards, end up giving away some things that they never even used. However, after joint discussion, the students came to realize that in every country there are generous people who always give many kinds of donations.

One student pointed out that in his home country people would only be able to make simple donations because families are large and many things are recycled from person to person. He concluded by pointing out that only in the United States with its strong economy is such charity possible.

This experience helped the students see that even little donations when added with others can, in fact, help many needy people. They also came to understand the impact that these donations have on individuals' lives and talked about the need for similar programs in other parts of the world.

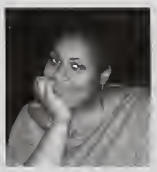
Center for Inclusive Leadership and Social Responsibility

by Whitney Retallic, Director

Walk through the Campus Center at any time of day and you might get the pleasure of hearing a robust, sincere outburst of laughter floating down from the office space on the second floor. That infectious laugh belongs to Ronda Zelezny-Green, who joined the staff of Pine Manor College in July 2009. During her first year she has exhibited tremendous energy and has brought many new ideas to the table.



Zelezny-Green has a hybrid position, working half-time as Coordinator of Youth Leadership Programs in the Center for Inclusive Leadership and Social Responsibility (Cilsr) and half-time as Coordinator of Multicultural Programs in the Student Life Department; two positions explicitly linked to each other and to the College's mission. Ronda brings to both positions a strong understanding of, and commitment to, our mission, with a particular interest in the role of diversity in inclusive leadership and social responsibility. She has experience teaching and providing training on several continents and with different age groups and this experience has been a great asset to PMC.

In the Cilsr, Zelezny-Green hit the ground running. During the past academic year she broke the Center's record by conducting leadership workshops at a record-setting pace. Altogether, she completed 42 workshops attended by more than 500 girls at high schools and community agencies throughout New England. She also reworked the presentation and garnered considerable praise. Among the comments made by participants were the following:

"I learned that leadership is not just a job for one individual, but for everyone, because each person in a group has something to share and contribute."–Student Participant.

"It was great to learn about these things and be able to talk about them in a secure environment. I would definitely be interested in participating in something like this again!"– Student Participant

"Thank you for working with our girls. The response has been very positive. I am hoping we can bring you back." – Director of Counseling

"The girls had such an amazing time meeting you and were really drawn to everything you did with them."– Youth Program Coordinator

This year we also had a number of requests for repeat workshops in the same school or by the same organization. We believe that this increase is due to the knowledge the girls take away from the experience and their own sense of self-improvement. A Student/Faculty Support Coordinator emphasized this by saying: "The students were obviously very pleased with the workshop and with the opportunity to look at leadership (and themselves) in a different way. We asked the students if they would like to continue the discussion in one or more further meetings, and almost all of them said 'yes'." A feature of all the leadership workshops is the Action Planning Session. The development and implementation of these plans for positive change in their communities help workshop participants practice the skills and values they learn during the workshop. This year, a large number of very attainable, ambitious Action Plans were put together, including the formation of a high school group called "Girls Taking Action" that met regularly in the wake of a suicide. The participants addressed the lack of acceptance of difference in their community and attempted to combat the negativity that they perceived on their campus.

One Youth Group planned to stop women/girls from criticizing other women/girls and to work to change the negative culture among young women. They planned campaigns at their schools to promote discussions about women that would feature positive images of women.

Students from another high school organized an anti-littering campaign because so many students littered and "trashed" the school. To do this, they formed a plan on paper, and then they met with their school principal to request more trash receptacles be placed on-campus.

As a result of Zelezny-Green's efforts in these leadership workshops, the Cilsr is able to positively impact hundreds of girls a year who, in turn, impact thousands of others through their positive Action Plans.

If you work in a high school or community agency (serving high school students) in New England and would like to set-up a FREE leadership workshop for girls during the 2010-2011 academic year, please contact Ronda at aeleznygreenronda@pmc.edu.

A CENTURY EDUCATING WOMEN OF PROMISE

PINE MANOR COLLEGE

Dear Alumnae and Friends,

I am very proud to Chair the Centennial Celebration of Pine Manor College. Over 45 years ago when I first stepped on the Pine Manor campus in Wellesley, I fell in love with the College. Even as the College has grown and evolved, as have I, I still love Pine Manor for the opportunities it gives to women and the excellent institution of learning that it is today. I have so many wonderful memories, like the dances in Bardwell Hall, taking horseback riding lessons just so I could wear pants to class, watching the Beatles debut on our housemother's TV, our fabulous classes with Mr. Lavin and Mrs. Sleeper, working in the Alumnae Office with Jane Henkels and most of all, the lifelong friendships established with my housemates in Wheeler House and across the campus. Who would believe how much trouble we got in for smoking after hours, or playing too much bridge instead of studying, or trying to break into the milk dispenser for a midnight snack?

It is my hope that the Centennial will be an opportunity for you to look back at your Pine Manor years with as much pleasure as I do, and to reminisce about how we all have grown as women and as lifelong learners. The impact of my two years at a little school in Massachusetts changed a shy girl from Hawaii forever—and I will always be grateful.

In order to make our Centennial a success, we need to hear from you and we need your help. The first thing you can do to help is to please fill out our questionnaire. Tell us about your memories, the fun times as well as the hard times, and the impact Pine Manor made on your life. As you have kept up with your Pine Manor friends, let us know of one who has made an impression on you and might want to share her story with us. If you have stories or pictures or mementos you'd like to share, please send them to us as we would like to develop our archives and create interesting articles for the Bulletin and our Web site. Are you interested in getting together with classmates, alumnae in your community, or in your profession? Please let us know and we'll help you get in touch with them. Of course, we hope that you will follow the Bulletin, and/or the Web site and e-newsletter for upcoming events and attend whenever possible. We are planning to hold Centennial events all over the country, from a weekend in Napa, California in April to a reception in Chicago, and events in Palm Beach and Houston. We'll launch our Centennial year with a picnic on the beautiful Chestnut Hill campus October 16, 2011, and mark the end of the Centennial year with a Gala Dinner on October 27, 2012. Join the festivities and bring your friends to celebrate with us!

The Centennial will be an opportunity to celebrate the Pine Manor of yesterday, today, and tomorrow. This remarkable little college is a national leader in educating Women of Promise, and we want to ensure that its second century is as remarkable as its first. So please join with us as we pay tribute to our alma mater and celebrate our exceptional College.

Please feel free to contact me at centennial@pmc.edu or call the College at 617-731-7623 with your ideas, your suggestions and your thoughts.

Warmly,

Betsy

Ways to Support PINE MANOR COLLEGE

Cash and Credit Cards

A gift of cash, generally made by check or credit card, is the most common way of supporting the College. Pine Manor accepts gifts using American Express, Visa, and MasterCard online at www.pmc.edu/giving.

Securities

Giving appreciated securities to Pine Manor College can be more tax advantageous than giving cash. If you donate appreciated securities held longer than one year, you can deduct the full fair market value, regardless of what you originally paid for them, and you pay no capital gains tax on the donated securities. With these tax savings, the actual cost of your gift can be less than if you had made a cash gift.

Planned Gifts

Planned gifts can be an effective means of providing tax savings and financial benefits to you and your family, while also providing ultimately for a substantial charitable gift to Pine Manor College. Gifts made under a variety of options, including bequests, annuities, and trusts may provide you with significant tax savings when you make the gift and provide savings to your estate in the future. Depending on the nature of the gift, it may also generate a better return as a charitable gift than it did as an asset in your portfolio. Please contact Pine Manor at 617-731-7623 for personalized information.

Matching Gifts

Many companies match charitable gifts made by employees, retirees, and directors. You can increase the impact of your contribution by applying to your company for a matching gift. Check with your human resources department for details about your company's matching gift program.

The preceding report lists contributions received during the fiscal year from July 1, 2009, through June 30, 2010. Every effort has been made to ensure accurate reporting and recognition of our donors. We apologize for any omissions or errors and ask that you contact the College's Development Office at 617-731-7126 with any corrections so that we may adjust our records. Pine Manor College is grateful for the interest and support of our donors.

Thank You!

2010 Kellogg and Service Awards

Over 120 members of PMC's faculty and staff gathered in February to recognize members of the PMC community for their service and to honor this year's recipient of the Kellogg Award. The Master of Ceremonies was Sophia Henderson, Assistant Dean for Recruitment and Retention.

The Kellogg Award was established in 1987 by James, Morris (Rusty), Peter, and Richard Kellogg in honor of their mother Elizabeth Irwin Kellogg, Class of 1935. The purpose of the award is to recognize those members of the PMC community who, after a minimum of five years of service, demonstrate "a substantial commitment of time or unusually distinguished, effective, or creative service to the College, at any level of its operations," with a substantial stipend. The funds are to be used for "personal growth, travel, renewal, or academic enrichment."

Before presenting the Kellogg Award, President Nemerowicz noted that "once again Rusty Kellogg, a former trustee of the College, the son of a PMC alumna, and the co-founder of the Kellogg Award, has donated the money for both the ceremony and the Award because the College is unable to draw these monies from its endowment. It is his generous gift to our community that allows us to pause for a little while and pay tribute to these significant accomplishments."

In presenting the Kellogg Award to Leonce Destin, President Nemerowicz said, "Breaking with tradition, this year the Kellogg Award recipient will not be surprised to receive the award. The winner's name was high on the list of those who deserve the recognition this award brings. When the tragedy of the earthquake in Haiti directly impacted his family, we knew that the award would mean the most if it came immediately, and so I presented the award to Leonce in my office two weeks ago."

"A native of Haiti, Leonce emigrated to Montreal, Canada, where he met his wife," President Nemerowicz continued. "They have five children—three are still in Canada, where his daughter is studying law in Vancouver, and they have a son in New York and one in New Jersey. After Montreal, the family moved to New York City and then to Boston, where Leonce worked for 14 years in the mailroom at Brigham and Women's Hospital, giving him great practice for his job at PMC."

"In October 1999, Leonce came to Pine Manor, working in Campus Safety for two years. For the past 8 years he has been getting our mail in and out, making sure that it gets to where it needs to go. He has in the past few months, because of Julie Christie's absence, taken over the entire mailroom operation. (See story on pg. 23.)

"We know, Leonce, that you are in the habit of doing for others—in your country of Haiti and in your neighborhood of Mattapan. We hope that today, with this Kellogg Award, you realize the support and admiration that you have here in the Pine Manor community. Congratulations."

After the Kellogg Award ceremony, VPAA Chester presented the senior faculty and staff who were being honored for their service:

Ruthann Bergman has been teaching at PMC for 25 years, first in the program in Business Administration and more recently in the program in Economic and Financial Systems. While she has taught a range of courses, from Taxation to Business Law, she is best known for providing accounting courses to generations of students, many of whom are able to secure their first positions after graduation in the field of accounting. She has also taught in a range of settings, including Norfolk State prison.

A licensed CPA, Bergman is a good example of the universality of a liberal arts degree, given that she received her BA in History and Social Sciences from Holy Family College in Philadelphia. After deciding not to pursue teaching in history, she went on to receive an MBA in Accounting from the Wharton School. She has long been a member of the Boston Chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants, holding a variety of positions within that organization, and has also been a member of the Mass Association of Accounting Professors.

Carole Rabe came to PMC fifteen years ago with a degree in Painting from the Hartford Art School at the University of Hartford, and an MFA in Painting from Boston University. She has taught a variety of courses including: Introduction to Fine Art, Drawing Fundamentals, Oil Painting, and Ideas and Images, and has helped many students (and a few faculty) to find ways to translate their ideas into images. She has participated in all iterations of First Year Seminars, including her most recent offering on Visual Literacy, which is now open to all students.

Under Rabe's directorship, the Hess Gallery has become a show case for contemporary work that is diverse, interesting, and current. The shows are consistently attended by artists and art lovers from the Greater Boston community, not to mention the many students, faculty, and staff who find in the Hess gallery a vital context within which to learn about the creating and presenting of art from a variety of multicultural perspectives.

In her own work Rabe probes the physical and emotional relationship between people and objects in spatial settings--inviting the viewer to explore and reconsider their relationship to their surroundings.

Mary Walsh, who has spent the last 20 years at PMC, is the glue that holds the College's Learning Resource Center (LRC) together. Under her directorship, the Center is recognized internally and externally as a model for what today's colleges need to serve a student body increasingly diverse in learning styles, backgrounds and abilities. She is part of the reason that the education at PMC is transformational.

Walsh holds an undergraduate degree in English and secondary education, and a Master's degree in Education from Rhode Island College. A certified Reading Specialist, she has continued her training with graduate level courses in Learning Disorders in Adults, Neuropsychology, Special Education Law, and Psychiatric Disabilities in Young Adults.

Walsh is a member of the Association of Higher Education and Disability, the International Dyslexia Society, and the Consortium of Massachusetts Learning Disability Service Providers.

Other faculty and staff honored for their service were:
Fifteen Years: Bill Boffi. Ten Years: Sophia Henderson and Melissa Yoffe. Five years: Erin Brennan; Stacey Corin; Barry Dolan; Stephen Donovan; Gail D'Ovidio; Charles Durrah; Martha Glover; John Kenefick; Elizabeth McGaffigan; Pam Palmer; Steve Sousa; Lynne Sterne; Susan Webber.

Rabe's paintings are done from direct observation and focus on the relationship between light, color, and space. To see more of her work, visit her website at www.carolerabe.com.

Jason Tocci, Assistant Professor of Communication, presented a paper "The Multiple Appeals of Gaming" at the Popular Culture Association/American Culture Association (PCA/ACA) annual conference in St. Louis last March. His attendance was supported by PMC's conference travel fund and the Peter Rollins Travel Grant, associated with PCA/ACA. Over the summer, he worked on research related to web design, and began searching for a publisher to transform his dissertation on "geek cultures" into a book.

At the fifth annual Athletics Hall of Fame induction during Reunion Weekend in October, Kim Brizio '02 (a softball player) and the 1985-86 basketball team with their managers and coaches were added to the roster of outstanding PMC athletes. Team members included Tammy Armour '88, Deborah Beaulac '89, Lisa Bedor '88, Catherine Cleary '88, Margaret Collins '86, Loretta Donahue '86, Lionda Gelormini '88, Heather Hamilton '89, Susan Lutz '88, Chris Spinelli '86, Laura Wilson '86, and Tori Wilson '86. Managers included Sandy Smith Calabro, Molly Cleary, Jody Fario, and Chris Russell. Coaches included Ed Kelly and Tom McCarthy.

Great Northeast Athletic Conference (GNAC) Awards

Former Pine Manor softball and soccer star Sara Pray '01 was inducted with the inaugural class of the Great Northeast Athletic Conference (GNAC) Hall of Fame in August.

All-GNAC First Team Catcher Courtney Wallace '10, was named 2010 GNAC Woman of the Year for her four years of excellence on the field, in the classroom, and in the community. She has been the First Team All-GNAC catcher four years in a row.

"Through community service activities, I learned the importance of social responsibility and that helping others only strengthens the community," Wallace said. "Through athletics I have learned some of the most important values: teamwork, accountability, hard work, mental toughness and confidence. Without these lessons I would not be the person that I am today."

One of the most prolific hitters in Pine Manor and GNAC history, Wallace was equally adept at the plate as she was in the classroom and community. As a first- year in 2006-07, Wallace ranked eighth in the nation in runs per game (1.31) and eleventh in slugging percentage (.879), beginning a string of eight consecutive semesters as a dean's list student. Wallace led Pine Manor softball to a first-place finish and 31-11 record in her second season. She ranked 19th nationally in slugging (.826) and 21st in on-base percentage (.546). She also began her work as a teaching assistant in biology as a sophomore, volunteered to speak to the Board of Trustees, coaching an Under-14 softball team and made the first of three consecutive GNAC All-Academic Teams.

Wallace earned her third consecutive All-GNAC First Team selection as a junior, volunteering for the "Coats for Kids" clothing drive, "Walk for Hunger" fundraiser, and the "Pink Zone" cancer awareness effort. As a senior, Wallace finished fifth nationally in slugging [.910 slugging percentage] and finished 41st in the nation in doubles. The senior biology major and English minor was named valedictorian of the Pine Manor Class of 2010, graduating last May with a 3.98 grade point average.

In April, Kayla Nielsen '12 was named to the All-GNAC Third Team for the second season in a row. She enjoyed a breakout sophomore season after missing the entire non-conference schedule with a foot injury. In 20 league games, the catcher/infielder tallied 20 hits (12 for extra bases), good for a .698 slugging percentage. Her six home runs in only 63 at-bats placed her in the Top 5 in the league.

First-year pitcher Tia Nelson was named to the league's All-Sportsmanship Team. She led the team and ranked among the league leaders with 143 2/3 innings pitched.

Gators Annual Awards

At the Gator's Annual Award Ceremony in May, Courtney Wallace '10 earned PMC's career achievement award and academic achievement award and split the 2010 Athlete of the Year award with softball teammate and classmate Michelle Myers. Wallace received the Henry K. White Award for outstanding career achievement in athletics. She graduated as the Gators career leader in hits (201), triples (12) and total bases (364) and was second in at-bats (455), doubles (46), home runs (31) and RBI's (140). Wallace also won the department's Scholar-Athlete Award for the second straight year.

Michelle Myers '10 led the team with a .461 batting average, 41 hits, eight home runs and a GNAC-best .910 slugging percentage. Also a two-sport student-athlete, Myers was the vocal and emotional leader of both the softball and soccer teams.

Veronica Vozzolo '10 was chosen for a record third consecutive year as the winner of the White Letter Award, which is reserved for "an upper-class student athlete who best exemplifies the attributes that make Pine Manor College and PMC Athletics special, including: inclusivity, cooperation, care for the common good and relationship based learning." She earned the award largely because of her work in promoting and producing "The Tucker James Project," which has raised awareness for Tucker Garcia '12, a transgender Pine Manor student-athlete.

Tia Nelson'13 won the Peter G. Ellis Award, which recognizes a first-year student "for demonstrating dedication, spirit and ability." She earned GNAC Rookie of the Week honors in basketball and led the Gators with 32 three-pointers.

Lacrosse's Jessica Pinckney '10 earned the Gator Pride Award, which is for a student-athlete who "displays pride in her respective team" and in Pine Manor Athletics.

Campus safety officer Jason Fopiano took home the Gator Athletic Award, which is for outstanding pride and dedication to the Athletic Department.

New Staff

Athletics Director

John Griffith was appointed the College's new Director of Athletics in October. For nine years he was the Athletic Director at Daniel Webster College, where, in the past two years, eight varsity teams enjoyed their best seasons in history and the program was honored with the NECC's "Champions Cup" for men's programs, while finishing second for women's programs. The athletic program set all time records for all conference and regional honorees, academic all conference selections, the highest number of Dean's List and President's List award winners, and highest overall grade point average.

Griffith graduated from Southern Maine University in 1979 with a degree in Political Science and a Master's in Sport Management from the United States Sports Academy in 1999.

Volleyball Coach

Waltham native Mike Murphy is the new head volleyball coach. For four years he guided the girls' varsity team at his alma mater, Waltham High School, to a 46-37 record, including a 41-17 record in league play and two state tournament appearances. Murphy also served as the first head coach of the men's and women's teams at Mass Bay Community College.

Soccer Partnership

During the 2010 soccer season, the team was sponsored by SoccerPro.com, a Columbia, Missouri based company. The partnership marks the most significant equipment donation in College's soccer program history. Founded in 2004, the company specializes in soccer equipment and ships to all fifty states and overseas.

Reunion
PINE MANOR COLLEGE

More than 100 Alumnae and friends attended Reunion 2010 (October 15-16, 2010), which celebrated those who graduated in classes ending in "5" and "10." The weekend was full of fun and interesting events, giving alumnae the opportunity to reconnect with old friends and make new ones. Here is a glimpse at some of the events that helped make Reunion 2010 such a special weekend.

1 Interactive Session of "CSI: Pine Manor" with Professor Michele Talbot

Reunion kicked off with alumnae trying to solve a crime. Professor Michele Talbot taught a class about the latest techniques and technologies available to modern criminal investigators. After the discussion, participants attempted to solve the mystery of who murdered the brilliant Cruella DeManor, Ph.D., Professor of Egyptian History, by using their newfound knowledge.

2 Reception at the Hess Gallery

On Friday evening, alumnae and guests gathered to review graphic art by Chaz Maviyane-Davies, who for two decades has taken on issues of consumerism, health, nutrition, social responsibility, the environment, and human rights. President Nemerowicz also recognized and thanked members of the Helen Temple Cooke Society and the Associates Club.

3 Reunion Dinner and Alumnae Awards

A dinner followed by PMC trivia and Alumnae Awards was held on Friday night. The Class of 1950 won the Class of '76 "Most Improved" Award for increasing the most in either dollars or donors; the Class of 1940 won the William P. Person Award for highest percentage of participation in the Annual Fund; the Class of 1940 also won the Annual Fund Award presented to the pre-50th Reunion class for highest percentage of participation in the Annual Fund; the class of 1960 won the Alumnae Association Award for the Reunion class with the most alumnae who registered for and attended Reunion; and the Class of 1950 won the Myles and Janet McChesney Morgan '21 Award for highest total Annual Fund contribution.

4 Estate Planning Workshop and Breakfast

The College hosted a conversation on Financial Planning with Gail Kingsley, Esq. Kingsley has many years of experience guiding individuals of all ages and in all financial situations in Estate and Financial Planning. During her 90 minute presentation she also explained the current tax situation and new tax laws.

Tour of Wellesley Campus

Alumnae were treated to a guided tour of the Wellesley Campus by Dana Hall Archivist Pam Kaplan. It was especially great for them to be able to see the still remaining buildings.

Pine Manor Today: A discussion with President Nemerowicz and Current Students

On Saturday, October 16, President Gloria Nemerowicz, Vice President Nia Lane Chester, Vice President Susan Webber and five PMC students—Lindsey Berndt '11, Sharon Hillman '13, Franphielis Melendez '14, Maria Peniche '14, and Mabel Rodrigeuz '11—provided alumnae and their guests with an inside look at Pine Manor today. President Nemerowicz and Vice President Chester answered questions about the College's mission and pedagogy. Each student touched briefly on her own personal experiences at the College as well as her plans for the future. Among the specific issues discussed were: what is unique about PMC, the sophomore and senior portfolio programs, the internship program, student activities and academics in general.

Dedication of the Julie Christie Mail Center

Julie Christie worked for the College for 51 years! Alumnae, faculty and staff (current and former) and friends gathered to pay tribute to this wonderful lady who touched so many lives. The Mail Center was dedicated in her name. (See story on page 23.)

Mix & Mingle Reception

Reunion participants, faculty, staff, friends and family gathered to honor retiring Professors Mahala Beams '66, Bob Owczarek and Joan Weinstein.

New England Clambake

Saturday's events were capped by a clambake that offered a number of tempting choices, including lobsters, hamburgers, hot dogs, corn on the cob, cole slaw, New England baked beans and an assortment of pastries for dessert. Music for the evening was provided by The California Dreamers, featuring guitarist and vocalist Rich McGirr, who is also PMC's Media Services Manager.

Former Trustee and Generous Donor Retires from Wiley & Sons

Deborah E. Wiley '66

Deborah E. Wiley '66 will retire from John Wiley & Sons Publishers, Inc., at the end of December 2010 after 42 years of service, most recently as Senior Vice President for Corporate Communications. She will continue to serve as Chairman of the Wiley Foundation.

Deborah Wiley is a current member of the PMC Board of Visitors and served as a Trustee of the College from 1979-1986 and from 1994-1998. She has been a generous supporter of PMC and, through Wiley & Sons, has contributed many books to our Annenberg Library, especially in the fields of science and technology. As chair of PMC's first Library Visiting Committee, Wiley guided the discussion and planning that resulted in the construction of the Annenberg Library and Communications Center. To recognize her extraordinary service to the College as well as her distinguished career in publishing, Pine Manor awarded her an honorary degree at Commencement 2009.

As the first member of the sixth generation of her family and the first female family member to join Wiley & Sons, her career has been a wonderful model for women's leadership. Beginning in a secretarial position, she steadily assumed increasing responsibilities and became instrumental in defining Wiley & Sons' public leadership at home and abroad. Her travels to Europe and Asia helped to raise consciousness about protection of intellectual property. Other highlights included directing the corporate giving program for over 20 years, starting the tutoring and mentoring program in the Hoboken, NJ, public schools, and leading the establishment of the Wiley Foundation, which recognizes scientific achievement with the Wiley Prize in Biomedical Sciences, a coveted award for innovative research first presented in 2002.

CLASS NOTES

MARY BEARDSLEY FENN writes, "With my interest in preserving history, I have just completed transcribing 125 letters written between 1911 and 1915 (put into book form). They were between my father, William Henry Beardsley, and my mother, Anna Jackson Hartness (DANA HALL 1909), before they were married — and from my mother to her mother after they were married. A fascinating window into family heritage."

1939

SALLY BAUSHER LITTLEFIELD writes, "I am still living at North Hill in Needham, MA, close by my son and daughter-in-law, who also live in Needham. North Hill, the retirement community where I live, is great. It keeps me busy with activities such as Wii bowling, pool, land exercises and trips to Boston. I have two granddaughters, Amy and Allison, both grown. My son Bill is still the host of "Only a Game" on WBUR, FM."

BARBARA THOMAS ACKARD writes, "Had my 90th birthday in November 2009. Nothing much new except graduating grandchildren and fun family get-togethers!"

DENISE (DENNY) BACON writes, "Dear Classmates: A broken femur in January 2010 was operated on and resulted in my being in rehab for eight weeks. I came home April 15th with care around the clock. I am a little uncertain whether I will be able to represent you at our 70th or not. This will depend on various factors, but the leg is healing well and, barring unforeseen circumstances, I expect to make it to at least part of the reunion celebrations. Other news: Have been in a race against time to get the KCA/KMTI archives settled at UMD (University of Maryland) which has a fine new Performing Arts facility and has accepted our archival collection for research purposes. In August '09 I was due to be a keynote speaker at the 19th International Kodály Symposium in Poland, but at the last moment dared not risk traveling so far. Finally recorded the speech and it was shown via DVD. Amazing what technology can do these days! This long sojourn in hospital and rehab has taken its toll on my ears and eyes. But my mind is sharp as ever. I'd love to hear from you, but don't expect an answer! Between the hundreds of friends, former students and colleagues whom I must thank for countless gifts and favors, I just can't manage another thing on my six-year-old "to do" list!"

M. PATRICIA DE MUNN BURNETT writes, "I'm back to my roots on the 'Hilltop' with my two family cousins. I have three children living with their families in Iowa, Colorado and Ohio. I have three grandchildren and four great grandchildren that keep me busy visiting when not at home. I enjoy bridging, gardening, interests in town, church and being with friends. I would love to reconnect with roommates: ELIZABETH (BETTY) WARE CARLHIAN and RUTH HAMILTON HODECKER."

MILDRED (MILLIE) MARTIN BUSTER writes, "Don't think I will get to our Reunion in October, 2010. Wish I could. I correspond with FLORA EVERDING MACLISE, PATRICIA FERNEDING MANION, MATILDA (TILLIE) ALSTON COLIHAN, VIRGINIA (GINNA) LOWREY BROWN and JOAN DOBROW OSTERWEIL '50 (who keeps us together). It's always good to hear from Tillie and Louise; they have been great keeping our few remaining classmates together. It had to be one of the greatest classes, each and every one of us! We all loved Pine Manor in the Wellesley days. Always gives me a lift just remembering our fun and closeness."

MATILDA (TILLIE) ALSTON COLIHAN and LOUISE DEMPSEY LEINROTH (Co-Class Secretaries) are sad to announce the passing of classmates PATRICIA (PATTY) POST TRUMP (September 2009) and ENID BROOKS WARNER (March 2010).

MATILDA (TILLIE) ALSTON COLIHAN writes, "I am eager to her from everyone! Update your email and home addresses. My garden produced great vegetables and flowers this season!"

ELOISE HILLS DIAMOND writes, "Finally gave up golf and my exercise in the fitness center here at Moorings Park. I spend a lot of time doing needle-point and flying to D.C. and Baltimore to visit my son and daughter."

FLORA EVERDING MACLISE writes, "Have a grand Reunion! Ask MILDRED (MILLIE) MARTIN BUSTER about our news!"

VIRGINIA MASON MORGAN writes, "Old age isn't for sissies. Best part is having eight grand children and seven great grands and still living by myself and being able to drive."

SUSANNE WALMSLEY SAUNDERS writes, "I celebrated my big birthday with many members of my family at the Boston Pops."

ANN TREADWAY SCHUTT writes, "Looking back on 70 years since the class of 1940 moved on to a busy life of marriage, mothering and making a place in our respective communities. Pine Manor was there all the way to guide us and to provide fond memories. As I approach my 90th birthday, I send best wishes to all and continued good health."

ELIZABETH BERRY VON DALLWITZ-WEGNER writes, "I went to Europe in June, then to Venice where I spent three days with friends. Then boarded the new ship 'Odyssey' and spent 38 days abroad to Croatia, Greece, Turkey, Italy, France and landed November 10 in Fort Lauderdale. I spent a week in Montreal in December and Europe in July."

ANN STARBUCK GELSER writes, "My spouse, George Gelser is deceased, after 60 wonderful years together. Now I am 89, in my 90th year and half blind, but doing ok at The Waterford in Juno Beach, Florida, a nice community home."

1942

DOROTHY BROWN CLARK writes, "I always enjoy Pine Manor news, especially since the College is now offering such interesting and varied programs. My husband, Jim, had a serious operation in January (2010), but is recovering well. His Parkinson's is under control with medications. Living at Evergreen Woods is a great benefit at this stage of our lives."

PHYLLIS PESKIN SARUBIN writes, "Two of our granddaughters were married this summer – great occasions. Another granddaughter graduated in May with a Medical Degree and a Master's in Public Health from Emory University. Morty has had by-pass surgery and is doing fine. I am now retired and I'm still busy. My youngest daughter is a survivor of breast cancer and has formed a foundation, The Fuchsia Foundation, to help cancer patients and their families."

MARIA-PIA ANTONELLI writes, "In June 2009, after 34 years of being on the board of Boston Civic Symphony, I decided it was time for me to resign. The board made a decision to dedicate the March, 2010 concert at Jordan Hall to me and another resigning board member of many years. My pictures and my biography were included in the concert program. I received a bouquet of flowers. This past March, I was invited to speak by the Perkins School for the Blind Outreach Program. I spoke on 'My favorite memories of opera.' This included my organizing opera and trips for Perkins students over the years. This past May, I was interviewed on TV by the Professional Women's Club of Boston. It was on the cable station, with which I am a member (Boston Neighborhood Network). They asked me about my teaching piano at Perkins School for the Blind and also my years of performing in concerts. It was a fun experience."

FRANCES MCGUIRE GEORGESON writes, "My dear Peter Georgeson and I soon celebrate our eighth anniversary. I've been blessed with five great grandchildren in five years. Still golfing (nine holes), doing water aerobics and walking. Unfortunately, I couldn't be at our 65th Reunion, but would love to get in touch with my roommate SUSANNE (SUSIE) MCLEAN HINTON who has moved to Texas."

VIRGINIA (GINNY) KINKEAD STOCKWELL writes, "Our first great grandchild was born last September. He is a happy child and such a joy to his parents, grandparents, and us. Plus he lives in the same state as we do, so we do see him and enjoy him."

CLASS SECRETARY

Adwyoco@aol.com

AMY DAVIS writes, "JUDY MARSHALL JONES is to be congratulated. She wrote me a long newsy letter. Judy wrote, 'Slowly I am adjusting to life without Reg.' She has been extremely busy with many trips; to Lake Tahoe with her four sons; to Princeton to attend the beautiful annual alumni memorial service (she also heard General Petraeus speak); to California again for Reg's sister's memorial service; to South Carolina for Reg's 1951 Air Force Officers Candidate School reunion; to New Hampshire to visit DEBORAH (DEBBY) MELLOR CROWELL and her husband Jim Crowell; and finally to Falls Church, Virginia, to visit son Andrew and his family. My house construction job is completed, thank heavens. I am now involved in The Catch-A-Calf program for 4-H youngsters. Thirty calves from the Y Cross Ranch, Horse Creek, Wyoming (my family's old ranch) were caught by 30 lucky kids to feed, raise and teach to lead before the 2011 stock show in Denver. In January they will be graded, weighed and all records evaluated by a committee. I am sponsoring a 16 year old Longmont, Colorado, 4-H-er, Alexa Jowder. I met Alexa and her family at the Catch-A-Calf breakfast at the stockyards. Her calf is #19, I feel sure that number is lucky. We loaded #19 in the family horse trailer after breakfast. Alexa must write me each month, keep detailed records of just what her steer eats, weighs and how her steer is performing.

LISETTE FOWLER WEISS wrote me that her daughter flew them both to Lourdes, France. They also spent three days in Paris. Lisette wrote the trip was truly heavenly. Lisette learned (through a call from VIRGINIA (GINGER) BOWN WHITE) that MARY PACKARD EMMER (Lisette's PM roommate) is at her home and doing well. Included in Lisette's letter was a beautiful picture of her taken at a café in Paris."

MARY LOU BEATTIE JACOB writes, "Sarah, our youngest, is expecting a daughter in late May to join Henry, who is six, and Abigail, who is two. They live close by in Larchmont and we all are very excited!!"

ANTOINETTE MAYER FALLON writes, "I play tennis. I'm not snow skiing now. I cruise in my motor boat and play a little golf. I have three grandchildren who are in private school. One attends University of Denver and two are working. I go to the Cape Playhouse in the summer."

MARY MULHOLLAND GRENTZ writes, "All is well here in West Chester, PA. Keeping busy traveling to Florida and North Carolina to see daughters and grandsons. Al and I try to keep fit by bowling and taking long walks with our dog Roxie. Everyone is welcome to stop in if ever in West Chester, PA."

ROSE (MOODY) CLARKSON MCCALL writes, "Here is a picture of my three grandchildren taken on Christmas Day. The boys attend the University of Florida and our Chinese addition is in first grade. They and their families all live at the beaches where I live! Lucky me. I'm in the middle of them."

PHYLLIS CHAIT ROGAL writes, "I am grateful to have successfully recovered from neck cancer; I had surgery and radiation. It was an ordeal, but I am feeling great and will return to my work at the Museum of Fine Arts. I am a Gallery Instructor in a program for students – second grade through high school."

Bill has been in Malta for the past two months working on the TV movie 'Moby Dick.' His son went over for two weeks with him. They filmed here in Lunenburg for two weeks before they went over in October. Walt's daughter is working in her mom's restaurant kitchen and is doing well. Bill's daughter and horse have done very well with all the horse shows!"

ANNE CALDWELL PARSONS writes, "In celebration of my 80th birthday, I moved to a beautifully renovated penthouse condominium on the same street where I started school in the first grade. I am fortunate to be near my four children and 14 grandchildren (10 girls and four boys). I spend my time traveling to see them. I am trying to live life to the fullest and forever grateful for the wonderful education at Pine Manor."

ANDRÊE PROVOSTY HICKEY writes, "A memorial tribute to DIANA BOURNE SHERMAN was given to Pine Manor recently by her close 'buddies' in Grey Lodge, Class of 1952. The group and their husbands have had many good times at reunions together over the years and 'Di's' laughter and good humor will surely be missed. She was a fervent leader in her church, a loving wife, mother, and an outstanding champion on the golf course. 'Di' died on December 22, 2009 in Pinehurst, North Carolina. This gift was given with love and deep friendship from CAROL FENNELLY HUTCHINS, ANDRÊE PROVOSTY HICKEY, PATRICIA (PAT) DEFRISE GREGG, MARTHA (MARTY) TOOLE HARVEY, DEIRDRE AHEARN BURR and PEGGY (CHRIS) CROSS OGDEN, all from the Class of 1952."

MARGARET SANDERSON BEILFUSS writes, "My sister JUDITH (JUDY) SANDERSON BRIDGE '52 passed away last November."

DRUSILLA (DRU) FLATHER FARLEY writes, "Our 55th reunion was a great weekend packed with renewing old acquaintances, fond memories, and late nights filled with laughter. Just being together after so many years is a celebration in itself. In March, I went to Colorado to see my grandson participate in the NASTAR finals. I had hoped to see LINDA GEROW LANKFORD and SHIRLEY BERNSTEIN MELNICK. Between snowstorms, mountain passes, and our busy ski schedule (no, I did not ski), we, unfortunately, were not able to get together. However, it was fun talking to them.

MARTHA KURTZ HIVELY has sold her house to downsize, but still lives in Ohio. How lucky she was to sell with the present market.

JOSEPHINE (JOADY) HARTMAN CHAPLIN was terrible allergic to something the doc gave her and had a two month recuperation last winter. One of her favorite things to do is mow the fields on her farm. I am happy to say that she is now well enough to play 'Farmer Chaplin' in the fields. I have enclosed a picture of three of your very young-at-heart classmates. MARTHA KURTZ HIVELY came out to visit me last summer. We met CYNTHIA (CINNY) EARLING GRANTZ in Madison for lunch. What a fun time we had. Classmates should get together more often."

ROBERTA (BOBBIE) BRADBURY FULLER writes, "Congratulations to you all on this special reunion! Where did all those memorable days go? Our world has changed so much! Today's college women would be astounded by the 'rule' changes! Fond memories of our freshman years remain: Wheeler House 'gang,' Cape Cod 'getting to know-you' day, Friday and Saturday night curfews, house 'mothers' (not resident assistants), required 'sign-outs', etc. As a Florida resident for the past six years, I miss New England, but enjoy good health and play golf twice a week. Regards to you all."

JACQUELINE M. VAN HAELST writes, "Still continuing to play tennis almost every day and playing in National Senior tennis tournaments. I spent some time in Florida and Arizona this winter visiting friends and playing tennis. Play in bridge weekly and piano recitals monthly. I keep busy and very fortunate to have a wonderful family and friends."

KAROLE ROSENFELD GREEN and her husband, Tom, attorney and businessman, celebrate the 25th anniversary of the family's supporting foundation, Lubin-Green. It has awarded nearly $4 million in grants to the Jewish Federation of St. Louis' agencies as well as community programs for children, seniors, Israel, and mental health endeavors. Karole is president of the Foundation.

ANNE MATHIAS SCHENKEL writes, "My husband and I have retired in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. Our four sons and their families are close by. Would be happy to see old friends. Sorry not to have been able to get to the Reunion. My husband's 50th seminary reunion was the same week!"

JULIETTE MCLEAN ANTHONY writes, "I am still a legislative and renewable energy consultant with a focus on solar photovoltaic installations. I am writing an expert testimony on solar power for Californians for Renewable Energy for our work to hopefully restrain major utility companies from overcharging the rate payers. DEBORAH SMITH '59 and I had a great time on a cruise to the Mexican Riviera and hope to go again in fall."

SUSAN SMITH DUQUETTE writes, "This Texas girl (former P.M.J.C. coed, Green Gables House roomies of NANCY VON GROSSMAN, Milwaukee, Wisconsin and BARBARA LEACH RICHARDS, York, Pennsylvania, as well as our closest neighbor, a single occupied by ELIZABETH (PENNY) GROS ANDREWS, Seattle Washington) is now an Okie resident. I crossed that significant body of water, the Red River, from Texas in late 1999 just as the clock moved into the 21st century. That last portion of a seven year trek throughout the entire 'Old South' as far North as Tennessee, as far South as Florida, and back to Texas (My home of 51 years), to 'back packing' in the USA, actually developed from my years at PMJC, 1958-1959. When I was a young girl, my mother and I travelled by train from Dallas, via St. Louis, to Charleston, West Virginia; the state of her birth in 1900. My grandmother had been born and raised on a rural W.Va. farm and quilts made by slaves from that farm, are portions of a collection held by the Charleston Museum (ie Civil War treasures). My great grandmother, Sarah Susan, from whom I was named, relocated with her daughter, son-in-law and two children to Dallas, Texas around 1914-16. However, before departing for Texas, my maternal grandfather served in the West Virginia State House as a representative. Among the 'family treasures' I received in 1988 were my grand's West Virginia house bills, plus yearly hand written journals he constantly maintained from relocation to Texas thru his death in the early 1940's. My uncle had retained in an old file cabinet all major letters of correspondence – including a letter to young Texas congressman, Lyndon B. Johnson re: repeal of the Taft Hartley Law and a letter to Republican Party of Dallas seeking support against F.D. Roosevelt. Grandfather wrote 'No man ever born of woman amassed the ships, planes and men to face the German beast Hitler…' So, what did my freshman college year give to a person in love with languages, literature, history, etc? The view from the North, as well as my delights in visiting Harvard, Dartmouth, Princeton, Williams, Martha's Vineyard Spring Break, as well as yachting races, crew racing at Brown and ice hockey! God Bless all – with the fondest!!"

JEANNETTE SANFORD FOWLKES writes, "2010 is a BIG year for George and me! In July, I turned 70, in September George was 75, and in December we will have been married for 50 years! To celebrate all these special occasions, we are taking the entire family to Kenya during the Christmas Holidays for about two weeks. George and I have been on safari twice before and wanted to share a memorable experience with our children and grandchildren! I see MARGARET SMITH KEW on Nantucket where we both spend our summers!"

SUSAN LOEW GREENBERG writes, "My oldest granddaughter is a sophomore at the University of New Hampshire (UNH). Her brother is a high school senior aiming for the Air Force Academy, and baby sister is about to turn 13. My husband, Alan, and I continue to love travel and spent a month this spring in southeastern U.S. We had a wonderful time."

SUSAN CHURCH MOORE and her husband moved from suburban Philadelphia to the woods of north Idaho in 1993. With pen on paper, Susan decided to write about the first year of her major transition, and with camera in hand this award-winning photographer attempted to report the move and acclimation in pictures. What became the photographic journal continued well beyond the first year and up to the present. Hiberden: A North Idaho Adventure, is a record of that journey as Susan adapted to the forests and the wildlife surrounding her. Visit www.hiberden.com to read much more about Susan's book.

MARY CURTIS RATCLIFF writes, "I am happy to say I have just joined the Web 2.0 era in a new way: through a page in the online art/craft community site Etsy. Through the site, I'll be selling small prints of many of my original artworks. They're inexpensive ($40 each) and easy to frame. Take a look and see if you find something you like: www.etsy.com/shop/ratcliffstudio."

Our six grandchildren range in age from one to fourteen years; another is due in February. We are much blessed. If any classmates are passing through Southeast Pennsylvania or Northwest Wyoming, we would love to have you stop by. P.S. We spent August driving to/from/through Alaska. This photo was taken after our dog-sledding adventures on the Mendenhall Glacier just east of Juneau."

So, we celebrated and took a three week trip (mostly a cruise) from Singapore to Hong Kong in April. Besides my six grandchildren, our newest addition is a yellow lab names Higgins. He lights up the world."

LINDA KOOLURIS DOBBS writes "In Spring 2009, Frances Lincoln in England and McArthur & Company published my book of photographs of The Gardens of the Vatican which took me 28 years to complete. My husband Kildare Dobbs wrote the text. A large exhibition was mounted of the photographs, giclees and Polaroid Transfer at First Canadian Place in Toronto. This year another exhibition of 17 of my Gardens of the of the Vatican works in the Drew University Library in Chatham, New Jersey ran from early April until May16th. Kildare and I gave a PowerPoint talk at Drew and at The Morris Museum in Morristown the next night to packed audiences. Though I have come home many times, living in Canada since 1973, it felt wonderful to be back on home turf. The flowering trees and bushes were gloriously in bloom there. I was in New York May 7th to sign books at the New York Botanical Gardens and had a reunion with my Pine Manor roommate GILLIAN SHEPHERD MESTRE. KIRSTEN (LYNDA) HARTMAN writes, "Class of 1969: I have now received my certification as a Geriatric Care Manager (C.M.C.). It's rewarding to be in a growing field. I've also been doing more teaching and public speaking."

DIANA MORRIS RAPHAEL writes, "Spring was insane in Vermont. Early flowers and leaves came a good three to four weeks early, yet on May 9, it snowed, we started up the wood stove again and I wore my gloves. I knew ROSAMOND (TALLY) GROVES was living in Vermont, but hadn't run into her until recently at an Alvin Ailey Theater Company performance in Burlington. I recognized her instantly. She writes that she has just found a new big studio on Shelburne, Vermont, and that her art sales are picking up. She says that now she can teach and watch sunsets over the Adirondacks. Tally, I've been watching those sunsets for 31 years and they never fail to inspire."

BARBARA BALDWIN DOWD writes that she visited HILARY WALKER GILMORE in Bend, OR last summer, and she is still very active in sports and coaching. She also visited BHAJIRA (VICKY) RADSCH TOWNSEND out in Kirkland, WA. Barbara is sponsoring a professional men's cycling team - the 'Mountain Khakis' - whom she toured with in Australia in January. Although she is not a cyclist herself, she remains active even with a metal hip in place. After 12 years on the PMC Board of Trustees, she is now a Trustee Emerita and is so proud of our college under President Gloria Newerowicz's leadership. Barbara writes that Gloria has brought national recognition to PMC and its mission of educating 'Women of Promise'.

CATHERINE (CACKIE) SCIFRES AUSTIN is living in Boston and working as the HR Director for a nonprofit publishing company. MARY (SCOOTER) ENGELMAN HATHORN writes, "After 32 years of career, family, raising kids etc., we have become empty-nesters and I have returned to my roots of passion...skiing. I spent five months in Vail this past winter, took a job as a 'host' on the mountain, and skied 110 days out of 150, not sure where the other 40 went???? But, here I am 60 years old, a 'ski bum' again and skiing as well and as hard as I've ever skied in my life. Wow, I hope this continues for the next 30 years. Anyone visiting in Vail in the winter is welcome to look me up . . . I give great tours . . . it's still under 'Engelman' in the phone book. My PM roommate, JAN COWAN PHILIPSBORN, took me up on the invitation and we had a great time. See you on the slopes."

WENDY FRENCH NOLAN is still living in NYC and working as a docent at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. She plays doubles squash and tennis. Both of her children are working and living in the city as well.

As for me, in June, David and I went to Alaska to kayak. My grandchildren count has exceeded my children count. My son Joey and his wife Stacy had a baby boy in September. PAMELA (PAM) CHIMOURES CHARIN writes, "I'm loving the retired life in Fairfax, VA with my tax consultant husband, Rodger, our beloved family pets, and lots of garden plants and trees calling to me. Daughter is well-established in her Behavioral Therapy profession working with Autistic children in Charleston, SC, and our newly graduated son is now applying to law schools. It is always a blast whenever I get together with JANET RENZ MCDONOUGH and MUFFY RENZ SCHOLLA. This past March we visited with LAURIE (LORI) LIEBERMAN and attended one of her shows during her recent east coast tour. She was, as always, a sensation (we are quickly buying up her CDs)! We remember hearing her try out new songs in the dorm or the commons with her guitar (and I remember singing with her on stage in our PM performance of Oliver!), and even then her songs were masterful and her voice was extraordinary! It's also been really great to be in touch with BETSY RODGERS SMITH. Would love to hear from BARBARA TOLLIS, MARY CLAIRE MCCAHEY, RYAN KATHLEEN (KATHY) MCCAHEY, and ANDREA WOODS GAUVREAU."

LAURIE (LORI) LIEBERMAN appeared at Club Passim in Harvard Square in Cambridge last March. Best known for 'Killing Me Softly' which was written after she saw Don McLean in concert at the now famous Troubadour in Los Angeles, she performed songs from her early Capitol Records catalogue, as well as from her newest and thirteenth CD, 'Gun Metal Sky', which was named, 'Album Of The Month', UK, on Drive On Records. This enduring artist has shared the stage with Leonard Cohen, Billy Joel, and The Jayhawks, to name a few.

MELISSA MARSH HEAVER writes, "Since leaving what was then PMJC, I went into the museum field and spent eight years at the Fogg Art Museum, an interim position in Washington at the National Trust for Historic Preservation, eight years in Annapolis working for a preservation operation, and then back to the Trust for 13 years working in their museum programs. I 'retired' six years ago from the Trust, and although I thought I would be able to have more leisure time, I married into a family that started one of the country's largest antique fire apparatus museums back in 1971. I have, of course, gotten sucked into working there almost full time. It's been fascinating, and has allowed me to put together a major exhibition on the Great Baltimore Fire of 1904, and to recently complete a book with my husband on antique fire apparatus. I also get to do a fair amount of museum consulting on the side, which is fascinating – lots of different museums, all with very different problems and issues. My husband and I got married fairly late, and we ended up adopting two kids – now 18 and 15. We brought them home from Latvia 14 years ago and what a wild ride it has been. Our son, who is a junior in high school, is a ham, but it means he loves to act, and so has been in a number of plays over the last five years. He also can sing, and is one of four teenagers in our church's all-adult choir of 39. He loves it! My daughter is horsey and would live in a barn, if she could."

LUCY WELBOURN JOHNSON writes, "Dr. Gegenas was the professor who inspired me and helped me to get my start in French and in the love of languages in general. I am now working on my PhD and she is part of the reason that I have advanced to this academic level. Thank You!"

JEAN ROWLAND JOSLIN writes, "In addition to my work as an art therapist at Princeton Medical Center, I have established a busy private practice in art therapy and a sideline in fine art, showing and selling my oil paintings. I recently helped establish the new Lawrenceville Artists Network with a full-time gallery and an extensive schedule of art classes open to all in the local community."

JUSHEA (SHEA) ROSE writes, "I just returned from Miami where I was shooting an ad for CoverGirl and recording with producers Cool & Dre. It was a dream come true … a complete makeover; hair by celebrity hairstylist Oscar James and make-up by celebrity makeup artist Tia Dantzler. The photographer, Peggy Sirota, has photographed some of the most famous personalities in the world. I'm also excited to share that I was recently hired as the student leader of 'The Movement @ Berklee.' I will be responsible for recruiting volunteers and organizing music-based volunteer initiatives that serve Boston area communities and include Berklee students, faculty, staff and alumni. ERIN MCKENNA STROUP writes, "I got married in 2001. I was working in Communications. I then received my Master's Certificate in Health Management four years later. I have been volunteering, now receive on the job training at the organization titled the National Patient Advocate Foundation (NPAF). I am busy speaking, writing, and meeting with Congress, legislators, and other health professionals regarding critical decisions to improve and strengthen health care. I was pleased to be offered a full scholarship from NPAF to go to a conference in Washington, DC at Capitol Hill with several legislators, etc. I will soon be working full time as a patient advocate and really love it. It is definitely a challenge, but most certainly rewarding. I continue to sing part time for fundraisers/and charitable events. I am still in contact with some old friends from PMC. I hope my old classmates are doing well and wish them the best."

WINNIE SHEUNGWA CHOW writes, "It has been a while. Hope all is well and you all enjoyed Spring and Summer wherever you were! I'm half way through my internship in Geneva and have been working hard on a number of mental health projects and reports. I am really enjoying it although the learning curve is steep and I feel a little overwhelmed at times. Besides working hard mentally, I am also working hard physically. I ran the Düsseldorf Marathon on 2nd May 2010 in aid of UNICEF and raised money for children affected by HIV and AIDS. Those of you who know me well know that this was my first marathon. My inspiration to run a marathon comes from having watched many Boston Marathons. The desire to run grew over the years, and this year I decided it's the right time to experience it firsthand. My personal connection to HIV and AIDS is through my past clinical internship experience with the Boston Healthcare for the Homeless as a mental health clinician and my current postgraduate studies in public health at the University of Düsseldorf."

JANET GALLOWAY writes, "Things are good, but busy, with me. I took a job at a blood bank in Delaware after graduation and stayed a few years. I then moved to a job at Hahnemann Hospital/Drexel University, College of Medicine in 2006 collecting human tissue from surgery and autopsy for research. It was an awesome job. I entered the Master of Pathologists Assistant program at Drexel in 2008 and graduated in May. I am so excited. I hope to stay at Hahnemann. I have been with my boyfriend, Dan, about six years. We have a cat, Super Pretty Kitty, and a dog, Butters. I adore both of them. (Tigger died in 2006; worst day ever.) Dan and I bought his grandfather's house in 2007 and we are looking forward to renovating the bathrooms and kitchen this summer. Time has really flown by."

Remembering Julie

Julie Christie's family and friends at the dedication of the Julie Christie Mail Center, October 16, 2010.

Dear Dr. Nemerowicz,

Thank you for your wonderful words expressed in your sympathy card.

We all knew that Pine Manor College was Julia's life, hobby, and happiness. What we didn't know is the depth of love the Pine Manor Community had for her. Very few of us go through life leaving a work related impact like she did.

We all know about the family stuff, but who loves work that much at 86?

It leaves us feeling good to say the least.

Sincerely,

Janina, Tania, and Nick

(Janina Christie is Julie's sister-in-law. Tania and Nick are her children; Julie's niece and nephew)

A memorial tribute for Julie Christie, who worked at Pine Manor for a half century, was held during Reunion Weekend in October. Alumnae, faculty, staff, and family members gathered in the Moncrief Room to celebrate Christie's life and her contribution to the PMC community.

Opening the ceremony, President Gloria Nemerowicz spoke about the impact Julie had on the College and on everyone she met. "Julie was truly dedicated to the welfare of the people of Pine Manor College. She cared deeply for all of us and taught us that no matter how busy we are, there is always room in our lives to care about others." the President said. "Julie was thorough, efficient and proud and she expected the same from others. And she never let us forget that her family was at the center of her world."

Following the President's remarks, a number of Julie's former Pine Manor colleagues spoke in tribute to her. They included mailroom colleague Leonce Destin, Business Manager Dorothy McDermott, Director of International Student Services Stephen Donovan, Drama Professor Emeritus Robert Owczarek, VPAA Nia Lane Chester, Assistant Dean of Student Recruitment and Retention Sophia Henderson, Dance Professor Mahala Beams '66, Adjunct Music Professor Richard Beams and Art Director Joan Kelley '00. Close personal friends Sandy Avellone '70 and Whitney Avellone also spoke.

After the presentations, the group attended the unveiling of a memorial plaque at the newly refurbished mail center and the ribbon cutting by Christie's great nephews and nieces.

Julie Christie died in March 2010 at age 86, having worked at the College from 1958 to 2009 as Central Office Supervisor and chief custodian of the Mail Room in charge of all incoming and outgoing mail. In 1990 she received the Kellogg Service Award.

Christie was the daughter of the late James and Helen (Stamuli) Christie, and the sister of Anne Hanlon and her husband Gerald of Dunbarton, NH, the late Nicholas Christie, and the late Thomas Christie, whose wife Janina Christie of Wellesley attended the dedication. She was also the aunt of Diane Christie, Christian Hanlon and his wife Amy, Tania Rooney and her husband Kevin and Nicholas Christie and his wife Sharon; and the great-aunt of Nicole, Noelle, Eleni, Andrew, Christian, Charles, Caroline, Julia, Mary, and Ania. Christie was buried from the Albanian Orthodox Church of the Annunciation in Natick and was laid to rest in the Dell Park Cemetery also in Natick.

President Gloria Nemerowicz, with the planning committee for the memorial tribute: Steve Donovan, Dotty McDermott, Erin Mills '05, John Hatch, Denise Alleyne
